Career Profile

Currently, an undergraduate IT degree student in computer science. Im in my third year in university in Corfu and so far the experience has been quite pleasant. As time passes, im gaining more and more knowledge and experience in the programming world. I have been working with a variety of languages throughout those 3 years in corfu, thanks to the university and i can say that with clarity im familiar with each one of them on a good level. The difficulty gets more and more challenging by the years but our job is to pull it through and be equipped with the right tools for the future.

Experiences

I have no major experience level yet but im surely gonna gain a lot as soon as i graduate! At the moment i am working on a various experimental mini projects in regards to web and gaming design alongside with the work and the projects of university to gain as much experience as i can, so i can be the most skillful version of myself. In my free time im also designing open world games and creating avatars and thinking of creative web themes.
